It is easy to understand History if we divide the past into large parts (called periods) that have many things in common.

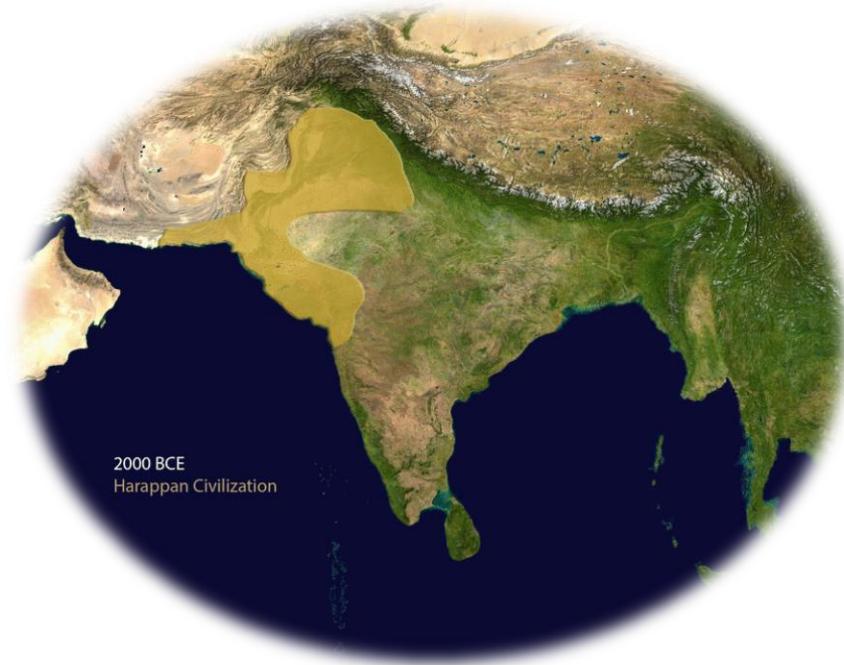

Time line of medieval period in India

The time from the 6th to the 17th century is known as Medieval Period. This refers to the Postclassical Era in the Indian subcontinent. It is again divided into two periods- Early Medieval period and later medieval period.

- The medieval period of India is divided into two 647-1200 CE(Early Medieval) and 1600-1700 CE is known as Later Medieval Period.
- The lack of unity by the Indian rulers gave opportunities to tribes of central Asia, to enter India from mountain pass from north-west.
