CHAPTER NAME : Whittington and his cat

SUBTOPIC : Explanation , Get Going A

CHANGING YOUR TOMORROW

The captain set sail back to London. He rushed to his master, Mr Fitzwarren, and said, sir, I bring you good news of your ship, and showed him the ship laden with treasures. He told him the story of the cat and showed the riches that the king and the queen had sent for Whittington. As soon as the merchant heard this, he called out to his servants.

“Go, send Whittington in and tell him of his fame. You all must call him Mr Whittington from now on. He is no longer a poor little boy.

When he saw the treasure, Whittington was stunned! His long cherished dream had come true! He begged his master to take a part of it but Mr Fitzwarren would have none of it. Whittington was too kind hearted to keep it all to himself, he shared the treasure with the captain, the mate and the rest of Mr Fitzwarren’s servants, even the old, ill-natured cook. Richard Whittington, thus, had his dreams come true!
