

It was long ago.

H.H.W

- i. The poet will tell about something that meant a lot to poet.
 - ii. The poem name is "It was long ago" and the poet name is Eleanor Farjeon.
 - iii. The poet's mood in the stanza is getting attracted to her past.
2. The old woman was sitting under a tree and she asked the speaker for bilberries and cream for tea.
- i. The speaker remembered the house, the mountains, the gray cat on her knee, her red shawl and the tree, and the taste of berries, the feel of the sun and the smell of everything

iii. 'Remember' word is repeated throughout the poem. The poet is remembering his past and getting happy.

iv. The poet was dragging in the road ~~and~~ while she saw the old man.

v. The old woman knew what it meant to be there because she and also have been a kid a time, have fun ~~and~~ like the poet.

3i. The poet Eleanor Farjeon was very young, 3 years old. She remembered an incident of that time. She recalls in a summer day on a dusty road side there was an old house, a tree, a mountain stood aside behind the house an old woman with in a red shawl with a grey cat on her knee was humming under the tree. It was the Coldest thing poet remembered. She asked the poet to take some bilberries and cream for tea and offered it to her. Such berries and cream the poet never seen before. That is the farthest thing poet could remember.

Date _____
Page _____

ii. Everything happening in our life is important because it creates a memory of that thing which we could get happy about it thinking in the future